WHEELING, JUNE 22, 1892.

FIRST DISTRICT
Congressional Convention.

A convention of the First Congressional District Republicans will be held in the city of Wheeling, W. Va., on Thursday, July 14, 1892, to nominate a candidate for Congress for said district to be voted for at the election to be held in November next, and to transact such other business as may come before the convention.

W. E. STATHERS,

JOSEPH C. BRADY, Secretary.

Of Indiana.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Of New York.

FOR JUDGE OF THE DISTRICT,

C. J. RAWLING,
ALEX. McCULLOCH.

THE general results of three years of Republican control here, I believe, have been highly beneficial to all classes of our people. The home market for farm products has been retained and enlarged by the establishment of great manufacturing industries, while new markets abroad of large and increasing value, long obstinately closed to us, have been opened on favorable terms to our meats and breadstuffs, by the removal of unjust discriminating restrictions and by numerous reciprocal trade agreements under section three of the McKinley bill. These acts of administration and legislation can now fortunately be judged by their fruits.—President Harrison, June 21, 1892.

IN 1890 it was a conflict of predictions; now our adversaries must face trade statistics and prices current.—President Harrison, June 21, 1892.

READERS of the Intelligencer going out of town for the summer can have the Intelligencer mailed to them for sixty-five cents per month, postage free.

Must Face the Music.

In 1890, before the country had time to ascertain from experience what would be the effect of the McKinley tariff act, the Democratic prophets of evil went about foretelling dire disaster. The people were to be ruined.

The consumer, who was supposed to have no interest as a producer, was to have the life knocked out of him for the benefit of "the favored few." Prices were to go so high that "the necessities of life" were to be placed beyond reach.

Republicans argued from the experience of the past and from the nature of the case that none of these things would come to pass. But the free trade prevaricator got in his work and elected a free trade Congress which has not done any useful thing to speak of, which noticeably has not dared to pass, nor even to introduce, a bill to repeal the McKinley act.

This time there will be a different sort of campaign. As President Harrison well and tersely put it in acknowledging the high compliment of his re-nomination: "In 1890 it was a conflict of predictions; now our adversaries must face trade statistics and prices current."

This is the hard, unyielding, tough-as-whitewash condition which confronts the free trade Democracy in its effort to break into the White House. It cannot be brushed away lightly. It cannot be argued away. It cannot be dodged. It must be met. How can the Democracy meet it?

Now that Cleveland is to run we see what a wise thing the Minneapolis convention did. What has been done can be done. This time it will be done even more emphatically.

CLEVELAND is the platform. Everybody knows what that means, and the country won't have it.

The Opposition to Harrison.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat recalls that "there was more opposition to Lincoln in 1864 and to Grant in 1872 than there is to Harrison in 1892, and yet they were both re-elected by satisfactory majorities." The opposition to Lincoln and Grant did neither of them any harm that showed up in the electoral vote.

The opposition to Harrison is Democratic. It would have been encountered by any other man named by the Minneapolis convention. It will make less headway against Harrison than against any other man who could have been named. The excellence of his administration answers in advance all that may be said against him.

If every Republican does his duty Harrison will have a greater majority of the electoral vote than he had in 1888, when he had 233 electoral votes against Cleveland's 168—ten more than are necessary to elect this year notwithstanding the enlargement of the electoral college.

GORMAN would have liked to have it, but he saw it was not for Arthur and he slid gently into the Cleveland column as an original and only simon pure Cleveland man.

THE stern, cold clasp of the unit rule will fasten many a delegate who would like to get away.

A Novel Spectacle.

That was a novel spectacle in the Democratic national convention when cheers went up for James G. Blaine. It was a spectacle which does honor to the Democratic party, and reminds us once more that, Democrats, Republicans, Prohibitionists, People's party men, we are all Americans, all men, all responsive to the highest and best impulses of our human nature.

The great convention thought in pity of the great man whose beloved son lay under its shadow cold in death, and sent the stricken father the condolence of a political organization which he has opposed valiantly all his life long. It was thoughtful, graceful, beautiful.

MR. WATSON would not get much comfort out of the convention. His turn will come after the election, when he rises to remark proudly and sadly, "I told you so."

THE Democratic rooster in the Democratic wigwag got a drenching on the first round. This is an inauspicious beginning for that frisky bird.

Cold, Clammy Reason.

This from the Louisville Courier-Journal may not be read with satisfaction by Democrats, but they have too much faction to look for satisfaction:

There is a strong undercurrent of opinion here that Mr. Cleveland should not be nominated, on account of the bitter factional fight in his own state and the party disruption in Indiana. There are other reasons equally as strong against his nomination, that to a cold, practical, political mind seem abundant to defeat him. A convention is one thing and the election is another.

The undercurrent here spoken of may be in the right direction, but it is not strong enough to carry the Cleveland men off their feet. They will stick to their idol and bring the minority to them. Of course the election "is another thing." Mr. Cleveland will carry Texas, but that has not been considered a pivotal state.

If Council consults the public interest it cannot refuse assent to the proposition of the water board to improve the water supply by removing the water works to a point higher up the river. The less sewage the people drink the better for their health. No councilman will be bold enough to dispute this proposition.

DAVID BENNET HILL was, but is not. What a nightmare he did give the Democratic party. He stands without a rival as the political Montebank of American history. His methods were to deperate for the desperate Democracy.

By early rising and close attention to business the Chicago convention should be able to wind up the business to-day. Benjamin Harrison will then attend to Grover Cleveland's proceedings in bankruptcy.

The tune on all sides is mainly devoted to shrieking out: "Cleveland can't carry New York." The opposition howls with: "If Cleveland can't carry New York, no Democrat can."—Pittsburgh Dispatch, special.

The two cries are not discordant. No Democrat can carry New York this year. It is a Republican year.

TAMMANY will not think kindly of Hill for rushing into a losing race, but Tammany will comfort itself with the spoils at home. This is as near as the tiger will ever get to the White House.

SCUDDER, the Chicago man who brained his mother-in-law, has committed suicide to save the hangman a job. This is his gentle way of confessing judgment.

THE march of years compels Mr. Cleveland to wear a bigger collar, but the size of the hat remains unchanged.

AND their craft sprung a leak very early in the race.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Ex-Governor Curtin happened to be talking about horses to some friends at Tyrone the other day and recalled a little incident of war times. Some one had sought his advice about buying a good roaster, and he recommended the would-be purchaser to Dr. Rutherford, of Harrisburg, who said: "Do you want a first-class animal? Well, you cannot go amiss in buying any horse you see within a radius of forty miles of Harrisburg, for all the bad horses have been bought up and turned over to the government for the use of the army."

The oldest member of the House of Commons is Charles Villiers. He is ninety years old and has been in Parliament fifty-seven years, though in this matter he is beaten by Mr. Gladstone, who came in in 1832. Mr. Villiers started the agitation in favor of the repeal of the corn laws long before Cobden and Bright were ever heard of.

Whitelaw Reid is the second candidate on the Republican side for Vice President, who, prior to his nomination, had never been a candidate for an elective office. Chester A. Arthur was the first.

Rev. Dr. Charles F. Deems, pastor of the Church of the Strangers, New York city, has just won a $20 and piece of silver as a prize for the best essay on "How to Manage a Wife," and he says he will give it to his wife to help him to continue to manage her.

Royal Baking Powder has no Competitors.

In millions of homes throughout the United States and around the world the fact has been recognized by appreciative housekeepers, that there is no other leavening compound that can or does compete, on the basis of purity and strength, with the Royal Baking Powder.

Other compounds intended for baking purposes, made without science, of poor materials, at a low cost, depend for their restricted sale upon the patronage of those who will use a greatly inferior article if procurable at a little lower price, or upon the recommendation of dealers whose self-interest urges the sale of goods yielding them the largest profits.

The Republicans have nominated candidates for the presidency at the following places: Fremont, Philadelphia, 1850; Lincoln, Chicago, 1860; Lincoln, Baltimore, 1864; Grant, Chicago, 1868; Grant, Philadelphia, 1872; Hayes, Cincinnati, 1876; Garfield, Chicago, 1880; Blaine, Chicago, 1884; Harrison, Chicago, 1888; Harrison, Minneapolis, 1892.
